DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Applicant's election without traverse of species I, figure 3, claims 1-3, 5, and 6 in the reply filed on 11/3/05 is acknowledged.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1, 2, and 5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being clearly anticipated by Simila et al., US Patent 5,389,743.

Simila (figure 1) teaches a circuit board comprising:

an insulator plate [12];

a first conductor layer [11] bonded on one surface of the insulator plate using a bonding member;

a second conductor layer [15] provided in a position facing to the first conductor layer wherein said second conductor is not bonded to said insulator plate by said bonding member; and wherein the first conductor layer and the second conductor layer are electrically connected to one another (through copper via fill [20]).

Regarding claim 2, Simila teaches a dielectric [15] interposed between said first conductor layer and said second conductor layer.

With respect to claim 5, the second conductor layer is separated from the first conductor layer (separated by dielectric [15]).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claim 3 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Simila et al., US Patent 5,389,743, as applied to claim 1 above.

While Simila fails to teach wherein a position of an end portion of said second conductor layer is at a position of an end portion of said first conductor layer or at a position between the end portion of said first conductor layer and an end portion of said insulator plate, the relative lengths of the conductor layers are readily and obviously optimizable and therefore are an obvious matter of design choice. Design choices and changes of size are generally recognized as being within the level of ordinary skill in the art (MPEP 2144.04(I), (IVA) & (IVB)).

Allowable Subject Matter

Claim 6 is allowed.

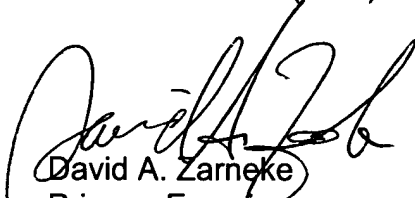

The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter: Prior art could not be located that taught the claimed relationship.
